COUNCIL ON AGING FOR HENDERSON COUNTY
ANNOUNCES NEW BOARD MEMBER

[Hendersonville, NC] – March 23, 2021 – The Council on Aging for Henderson County (COAHC) introduced Christine Martin as its next board member. Ms. Martin begins a three-year term after unanimous approval by the COAHC Board of Directors at its March meeting. Ms. Martin is a Sales Representative for Humana. She is based in Asheville and serves the Henderson County market.

“We are very excited about Christine Martin’s addition to our Board of Directors,” said Keith Logan, executive director. “She brings relevant experience from her health care background, and we will benefit from her insights into providing service to aging adults in this community,” he added. “The Council on Aging is fortunate to add her talents to complement our outstanding volunteer board.”

“I am honored to join such a prominent nonprofit organization’s board, and I look forward to working shoulder-to-shoulder with them to address the needs of homebound aging adults in Henderson County,” Christine Martin stated.

The Council on Aging is a nonprofit organization established in 1969 to provide and coordinate services to engage, connect, and support adults in our community as we age. It currently serves meals to 400+ homebound clients each week in all parts of Henderson County. In addition, they host congregate meals at the Sammy Williams Center, provide liquid nutrition to seniors who cannot get sufficient nutrition from solid food (many of whom are getting cancer treatment), and counsel aging adults and their families on helpful resources to navigate the aging process. COAHC’s vision is, “No One Ages Alone.”
